BREAKFAST WITH A SIDE OF PROPOSITIONS

In case you hadn't noticed, (and I think in this technological age that would be pretty impossible), this is an election year! In addition to our federal, state and local races, we in California must also do our civic duty by voting for a host of propositions—some put there “by the people” and others by our elected leaders—all supposedly, “for the people.” This year you will be asked to vote on fifteen (15) state measures, two (2) county measures, and if you live in the City of Los Angeles, one (1) city measure. Now many of you may have already received your Voter's Guide and have had a chance to peruse it. Are you confused? Would you like to ask some questions? If the answer to the foregoing is “yes,” then we have the answer for you. Come to our October breakfast and discuss the ballot propositions with Sandy Wolber from the League of Women Voters. As you know, the League is strictly nonpartisan in its presentation of the ballot measures. Their speaker will present the pros and cons of each measure, the advocates and dissenters, and the League's position, if it has taken a stand on a particular proposition. As AAUW members, we pride ourselves on being “informed” voters, so don't miss this opportunity to be “educated,” and join us at our General Meeting on:
